

MY STAR CAR

The Corolla Altis has been very successful for Toyota in India. This month we have another owner from Delhi who shares his experience with us.

Harsh Aggarwal, a businessman from Delhi, loves his Corolla Altis. He already owns two Toyota cars, the Innova and the Corolla. When he decided to buy a third car, it was a no-brainer. According to Harsh, the Altis was the obvious choice. He bought a silver Altis in January this year. "The Altis looks and feels like it is in a league of its own. It also offers a driving experience which is unlike any other car," he says.

Harsh likes the gorgeous flowing lines of the shape and the attractive front headlamp cluster which he feels are the finest features of the exteriors. We then move to the lavish cabin of the Corolla Altis. Harsh simply loves the interiors of the Corolla. "I love the rear seat comfort and the marvellous air-conditioning in the car," says Harsh. According to him, the rear seat space is great. "It is so roomy and relaxing that even after long journeys, I barely feel any strain or fatigue." The slick gearbox is a feature loved by almost all Toyota owners and Harsh is no exception. "When I find an empty road, I just press the accelerator and the super gearbox and engine enable the car to really zip.

I love it," says Harsh.

Harsh is also fond of the wonderfully designed dashboard. "The pretty control dials and the overall quality is remarkable." The steering-mounted audio controls are another favourite for him. "On crowded roads, when you can't look anywhere else, these audio controls are a massive help." Another very useful feature, which he appreciates, is the front and rear cup holder. "On long drives or when out with friends, these cup holders are great for holding soft drink cans and water bottles," he says. The other thing that impressed Harsh and most Toyota owners is the bullet-proof reliability and cheap maintenance of Toyota cars. "The aftersales service is absolutely flawless and extremely helpful. I already possess two Toyotas in the family which have clocked over 100,000 kilometres and are still going strong. I am very satisfied with the brand and also with the cars."

Harsh has always been a Toyota fan because of its "Green" credentials, as the company is actively involved in supporting the environment and reducing its environmental impact. "Since I am involved in the green energy industry, this is a big plus for me, to associate myself with a car brand that cares for the environment. My next car would unquestionably be again a Toyota, this time the Prius," says a proud Harsh.
